U.N. Broadcasts Welcome Move For Parley Renewal

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

TOKYO, Sept. 21. - Broadcasts sponsored by the United Nations command today welcomed the Communist proposal for immediate resumption of the long-dormant Korea armistice conference.

However, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway maintained official silence up until a late hour Friday as he put the finishing touches to a draft of his reply to the Red high command's bid for renewed truce talks.

No Indication of Action

No Indication of Action
There was as yet no indication as to when the UN supreme commander would release his answer.
Even as Ridgway weighed the wording of his next note he also was busy giving overall direction to prosecution of the war which became suddenly intensified today.
The big new American armored drive in North Korea's west-central area against a huge Chinese Red buildup occupied much of the UN military chief's attention.

However, the enemy's proposal, couched in a message to Ridgway from Generals Kim Il Sung and Peng Teh-Huai Thursday, contained points which might be considered objectionable to the Allied supreme comander.

Not only are the farm lands in Lawrence county ready for the winter wheat, one farmer on the old Butter road was drilling his wheat by tractor light Wednesday night.

Thorough inspection of home and public building heating units would not go amiss at the present time. Annually firemen of the local district get scores of calls from residents whose smokepipes have rusted out and smoke fills the homes when fires are ignited. A check of the heater and pipes would save many runs for the fire fighters.

Local motorists have discovered that it is almost impossible to travel in any direction from New Castle without getting on a detour of some sort. WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.-President Truman's appeal for the Sen-ate to boost its 5.5 billion dollar tax bill drew today a terse "not one more cent" from the chair-man of the finance committee.

George predicted the bill's total will be unchanged by the Senate Mr. Truman urged the senators to increase both personal and corporate taxes to yield an amount that "approaches as nearly as pos-sible" the 10 billion dollars he originally requested. Amendments (Continued on Page Two)

Fail To Reach

Efforts to settle the Johnson Bronze strike failed Thursday afternoon after a two-day session in The Castleton hotel.

Somewhere near five o'clock the meeting between the management, the union, federal and state mediators and Mayor John F. Haven broke off with nothing tan-gible accomplished.

New Offer The company made a new offer to the union which was refused. The new offer would grant a gen-eral wage increase of four cents per hour, plus the fringe benefits offer made some time ago. This includes a funded pension plan, more generous hospital and welfare plan and three weeks vaca tion for 17 years service instead o

An alternative plan would hold the hospital and welfare plans at present level and grant a five cen per hour wage increase. Both in creases include the two cents per hour increase which is permitted by the wage stabilization formula due to the increased cost of living.

The company's final offer before the mediation conference, Mayor John F. Haven. Federal Mediator Charles R. Ward and State Mediator Troy C. Burns asked the union committee if it would take the new offer to the membership of the union for a vote as to acceptance or rejection.

THE TREE SURGEON

There died the other day in Asheville, N.D., James A. G. Davey, Sr. He was a member of a family notable in tree surgery and was himself one of the nation's foremost authorities on trees.

He was the man who saved the trees of Central Park, New York City, 25 years ago. Their death at the rate of 1,000 a year was popularly attributed to the exhaust gases of automobiles. Mr. Davey proved the cause was the devitalization of their soil and attacks by the European red mite, a microscopic spider. New York appropriated $1,000,000 for rehabilitation work, which Mr. Davey supervised without compensa-

The tree surgeon may be distinguished from the forester, who deals primarily with timberland. But "forester" has become the title of many tree surgeons in public employ. The tree surgeon, or tree expert, is chiefly concerned with shade and ornamental trees.

He must understand the principles of planting, pruning and bracing, the origin and treatment of diseases, the repair of decay. Many things can happen to a tree. It is subject to attack by worms and insects, especially beetles and spiders, by diseases and fungus. It is vulnerable to wind and ice. Like human beings, it can suffer from nutritional deficiencies.

These patterns include regula-

Even when we hear our children complain or make passing remarks which suggest to us some bad ways of the teacher, we had better reserve our judgement and not criticize the teacher in the child's presence. In case we consider the matter of sufficient gravity, we might go to see the teacher after waiting for some hours or days to regain our com-posure. And if we do go to see the teacher, we should go as per-sons of poise and self-control.

Listen Silently

Though we should usually listen silently while the child complains of the teacher, we might help this child see that he would do well to try harder to find out what the teacher expects of him and to manage himself accordingly. Even when an older child supposes a teacher picks on him or has been unfair or unjust with him, he might be led to see that as he grows still older, he may have to work with and for per-sons who vex him and that he too seriously

Among some Eisenhower opponents in the party are those who be-lieve in good old-fashioned Regeneral stepping in to take the prize for which Republicanism has waited so long.

This attitude is simpler and more straightforward than that of others in the anti-Ike faction. Some are Formosa firsters who consider Eisenhower's preoccupation with decadent Europe a weak ness that disqualifies him. still others know that Eisenhower would never be their kind of pres-ident.

Use Fear And Hysteria

Among the latter are Republi-cans and Democrats who have used fear and hysteria in a fight against communism, by which all too often they mean any policy that differs either on the foreign or the domestic side from the be-liefs they intend to enforce on everyone. They are quite right about Eisenhower. One of his outstanding qualities is his firm mind-edness and he would never tolerate the tactics of guilt by association and innuendo.

In this connection the course of

The price of duty, which is how Eisenhower considers his relation to any possible bid for the presidency, can be too high.

Popular, Though Acheson? (By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 21.—While the bells are still donging in praise of Secretary Acheson's leadership at Ottawa and chairman-ship at San Francisco, there's still time to laud another "ship" without which Acheson's triumphs would be incomplete-the innate sportsmanship of Homo Americanus.

To pinpoint the matter, Acheson's current popularity got powerful boosts when some of his severest critics—GOP Senators Knowland, Smith and Taft—stood up and praised him, a happy sample of fair play by any standards. It even helped when Senator McCarthy, nobody's beau ideal of sportsmanship, sourly admitted that the Secretary had done a "good gavel-banging job" at the Japanese Peace Conference. He sure did, as all the world knows; and it takes nothing away from Acheson to remark that there are always two parties to every triumph -the hero and the hero-acclaimers

An Admirable Trait

Nor is the subject well-discussed without mentioning an admirable trait in the stiff-lipped Secretary. No practicing statesman within convenient memory ever had so many ups and downs in personal popu-larity. Acheson hit the heights when he negotiated the Atlantic Pact, but he plumbed the depths when he refused "to turn my back on Alger Hiss." He reached the fullness of political influence last year when he prevailed at the White House in the ouster of a fellow Cabint-member, Louis Johnson. But he looked like a gone goose this year when many Democrats joined with a near-solid bloc of Republicans in demanding his dismissal. Yet through the smiles and scowis of fortune, Acheson measured up to the truest test of sportsmanship. He proved in scores of press conferences, in dozens of hostile Congressional hearings, before numerous public audiences that he could:

"Meet with triumph and disaster, And treat those two imposters just the same."

Bouquets Enough For All

There are bouquets enough here for all concerned, but the welcome perfume should not distract attention from the real reason for Acheson's comeback. The proof is before us that the Secretary can get public praise and bipartisan support whenever—but only whenever—he clearly deserves them. What, then, is the central cause of this

It is simply that Acheson has gone over to a policy of America First. Or to give the matter another pitch, he has begun to assert American leadership, often to the annoyance of our allies and associates. A good enough example took place two months ago in Madrid. For years the State Department had hesitated to irk laborite Britain and near-Communist France by casting an official eye toward Franco But the need of Spanish bases at last outweighed the thought of offending our poor relations in West Europe, and the deal was opened.

Political Ruthlessness This is political ruthlessness of a sort, but it is affirmative action. It is leadership which the nation understands and which the wobbling free world needs. In San Francisco, too, there was a job to be done and we did it with an unaccustomed bang. The salient feature of the Japanese Treaty is not so much its magnanimity as its degree of unanimity. It is far less important that we were soft toward our War II enemies than that we were stern toward our Cold War

Qualities of leadership, not of mercy, will prevent or win the show-down fight with Russia. So we overrode British commercial interests in the Orient; we vetoed Filipino demands for harsher terms against Japan. We declined to be put off by the two-government paradox of China or by the timorous hesitations of India. The steamroller tactics which flattened the Communists at San Francisco had been preceded by bulldozer tactics upon the non-Communists. There was only one boss at San Francisco, and that was us.

Likewise, at Washington and Ottawa, Acheson has been calling the tune among the foreign ministers of the Atlantic Pact. He has demanded more troops for Korea, the admission into the pact of Greece and Turkey, the formation of a European Army for Gen. Eisenhower A new Acheson? Well, anyhow not the same Acheson who was on the verge of accommodating Britain and France by recognizing Red China.

Plainly it is this America First policy—this take-charge attitude—Plainly it is the chears. He will get more of the sam which has gained Acheson his cheers. He will get more of the same if he maintains his posture of strength. But it's just as well to remember that the Secretary did not snap into it without a good deal of prodding from Congress and the country. The same critics who now praise his strong stand are the very ones who long ago urged him Perhaps the strangest thing about Acheson's popularity is that it was thrust upon him (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Pulp And Paper Chemistry Has Great Future

APPLETON, Wis., Sept. 21.—
(INS)—World scientists who specialize in the chemistry of pulp and paper appeared in agreement today there is a vast frontier open to the industry in the use of new raw materials to augment shrinking supplies of soft wood.

Delegates from scattered points of the globe presented papers before the international pulp and paper symposium at the Institute of Paper Chemistry in Appleton detailing the new sources which can be developed.

Untapped Resources

The concensus was that heretofore untapped resources, such as waste straw from grain products, fore untapped resources, such as waste straw from grain products, sugar cane, and hardwood trees from lush tropical jungles could offer new life to the pulp industry which currently is hard pressed by dwindling supplies of coniferous trees and resulting higher costs.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—(INS)
—The leader of Pennsylvania's fight against tuberculosis reported today that the disease is the eighth common cause of death in the state but "this heavy burden is preventable.

In a speech prepared for delivery at Pittsburgh, Dr. M. C. Stayer, the State Health Department's director of tuberculosis control, told members of the Pennsylvania Public Health Association tuberculosis killed 2424 residents of the state in 1950.

"The leader of Pennsylvania's dividence of death will retire this year from the dispersion of portion. Although admitting that he discussed the possibility of leaving the job during a meeting with CIO vice presidents, Murray claimed this was merely "to start them talking about it ... to minimize the danger of disharmony".

Operation Will Be Big Factor

Livestock Men Are Warned Profits Hinge On Operation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21-(INS) -A leading farm economist has warned livestock men that cattle feeding profits will have to come from efficient operation, not rising prices, this year.

L. H. Simerl of the University of Illinois points out that the bigger parts of profits from feeding have come from constant price boosts since World War II. But now, he says, that premium will be where it belongs— on efficient production.

Simerl observes that farmers who are good cattle feeders will make money in 1951-52, while less able neighbors pay for their experience.

The Illinois economist says that the average of all prices received by farmers is now about twice as high as the 40-year average. Beef prices are about three and a half times this level.

Realizing this, many farmers are getting into what looks like a profitable business. However, the university expert warns that pro-specti profits from feeding cattle this year are small.

Prices for heavier feeder cattle are as high as prices for fat cattle. And prices for feeder calves are considerably higher than prices for slaughter steers of comparable quality.

Other experts are also cautioning farmers on the outlook for feeders. One, for example, says that feeders should do a little pencil work before they buy and feed cattle this fall.

feed cattle this fall.

They say a farmer should figure out what it is going to cost to make a profit with existing feeder and fat cattle prices. He should reasonably certain that it looks majorettes from Union's major transcription. er and fat cattle prices. He should be reasonably certain that it looks like a profitable operation before he goes ahead.

If you are thinking of cattle feeding operation this year, the experts also suggest that you don't buy too much weight—unless there is also a considerable price advantage. Feed for a moderate finish, they suggest.

Farmers are also being advised to sell cattle when finished—and to keep liberal inventories of feed on hand. Early selling of grassers may be advisable, it is said.

PINE MOUSE IS DESTROYER

There are over one hundred kinds of rats and mice in the United States. And all of them cause a great deal of destruction throughout the land.

Unroughout the land.

One of these destroyers is the Pine mouse, which ravages the grain fields and orchards. Hundreds of these rodents in a field will eat tons of vegetation to keep life in their bodies.

The birth rate of mice is amazing. One pair, and their off-springs in a year will mean just about one thousand more pests. Winters are no barrier to the Pine mouse for his tracks are well laid over the snow on the fields.

Many names in Lawrence county go back to the Indians for their origin. There is at least one that has its beginning in the Latin, according to Judge W. Walter Braham. That one is Volant.

If you know anything about Latin conjugation you'll understand it. If your knowledge of Latin extends only to Hog-Latin, you'll have to take the word of Judge Braham for it.

Volant comes from the Latin verb Volo, "fly"; Volatis, "you fly", and Volat, "he, she or it flies".

The plural is Volamus, "we fly"; Volatis, "you fly", and Volat, "they fly".

Young Father Is Shot To Death In 'Love Triangle'

READING, Pa., Sept. 21.—(INS)

—A 29-year-old father was shot to death in what police said was a "love triangle" involving his daughter's attractive baby sitter and another suitor.

John Luckanish was shot in the head last night as he sat with Elea-nor Lane, 20, at her home in Read-ing, police said.

Detective Sgt. Bernard Richards identified the slaver as Edward Fisher, 52, Norristown, whom he said confessed the shooting in an attempt to dissolve the love trian-

Richards quoted Fisher, a married man, as saying he had courted Eleanor for years and only last week spent $80 on her at the Reading Fair.

The detective said that Luckanish hired Miss Lane as a sitter for his daughter, Beverly Anne, three, and often took her home.

Fisher saw the pair together in ne living room last night, Richards said, and strode into the room and fired three shots from a .30-caliber pistol.

Luckanish fell dead to the floor with a bullet in his right temple. The other bullets went wild. Miss Lane deflected the pistol until her father, Ernest, quelled Fisher. Miss Lane described Fisher to police as "just a friend of the family". Luckanish, a roofer, visited her merely to inspect a paper-hanging job he had done for her father, she said.

$20 BILL WANDERS

CLINTON, Mass .- At 1:30 p.m. on a windy afternoon, Mrs. Elizabeth Benway lost a $20 bill in the business district. For three hours the bill was caried about on the breezes, without anyone dis-covering it. Then Alex Sorel, while crossing a street several blocks distant, spotted the bill and took it to police. They restored it to Mrs. Benway, who had reported her loss.

Old Type Story In Comeback

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 .- (INS)-It has been ten-twenty years, I guess, since I last saw in the newspapers a type story that once turned up with regularity on the front pages.

The story always concerned some old gaffer, flushed out of the Ozarks and brought down to the settlements for the first time in his life, who was just getting acquainted with railroads, street cars and movies.

But this set piece died out some

But this set piece died out some years ago when it developed that everyone had been up in a flying machine at least once, when buses replaced street cars and the magic lanterns got themselves established at the fork of every creek.

Makes Re-appearance

However, I am glad to report that the up-dated, stream-lined, 1951 edition of this story has just made its appearance in the New York Times, the publication that runs all the news fit to print. The other day, it saw fit to print an interview with two lads from the West Indies who had just been exposed for the first time to guess what?

One lad said "very interesting" and the other, "this I got to write home about," thereby ending his sentence with a preposition, times or no times.

Ever since, I have been holding myself in readiness for the visit of a Times reporter.

"Well, well, well!" says the Times reporter, "so you have never seen television. To what do you attribute this interesting con-dition?"

"Well, who wants to be a yella dog? So that way you empty the house and you get home without seeing pitchers, and you are welcome to use this Robb hidden ball play anytime you get to be a yella and the company of the play anytime you get cornered, and think nothing of it."

"Ah, thanks," says the Times man, "but let us get back to television. If you do not have a set, how do you employ your time?"
"Are you kidding?" I ask.

"A Times man never kids!" says the reporter coldly, "What do you do with your time?"

Particular attention, he said, will be paid women of child-bearing age.

Why sometimes we sit around will sometimes we sit around all evening, just talking about current events like will Margaret Truman ever get married while her pa is in the White House, or will he keep running until she does, God forbid; can we afford to have the wing chair round. have the wing chair reup-lstered; who put the overalls Mr. Gromyko's chowder; how far is up; if Ann is ten in November; and is Evita a natural blonde.

"You'd be surprised," I continue, "how much there is to talk about, once you get the hang of it. People used to talk all the time. That was all there was to do.

"Read?" asks the Times man, marvelling. "Yep, it was something they used to teach when I was in school years ago. I can read newspapers and magazines, and sometimes I go whole hog and read a book— clear through, cover to cover, cross my heart and hope to die!" But the Times isn't listening. e is frantically trying to climb out the window and he is muttering into his beard (all Times re-porters have beards), "mad, mad, mad as a hatter! Soon as she said she could read, I knew the was 305 North Jefferson street, col-

And a good idea it is. There is no reason why the older teen-agers shouldn't be excellent drivers. We know that young people and the very old have more accidents than the average. But as far as youth is concerned, it's usually because the youngsters are "feeling their oats," not beacuse of lack of ability.

Driving training not only gives young people the skills they need but helps them appreciate the importance of carefulness and consideration for the other fellow. Usually, indeed, they develop a feeling that it's stupid to be care-

Experts Warn Some Farmers

Owning Machinery And Renting Are Farmer's Problem

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21-(INS) -Agriculture department experts are warning farmers they do not always come out ahead by owning and using every machine they need. Often, they say, it is cheaper

But the best way to make the final decision is with a pencil and paper and an accurate record of

They admit it may be vital to success as a farmer to own some machines, though there are many cases where it is cheaper to hire work done on a custom basis. Here is how to decide:

will usually pay you to hire machine work if the job can be done right for no more than your real sts would be with your own machine and labor.

It is generally better to hire when the cost of the two methods chine service is good.

Of course, if by hiring custom work you leave your farm workers idle that might modify the situation. But on a straight break-even basis there is often no advantage to buying.

So Say The Experts

Many farmers may want to hire a job done even if it costs a little more than owning their own quipment. That is because owning machine means that you have noney tied up in it—money for which a farmer can find many other uses.

The experts concede that there work done at the exact time you need it, for example.

To make any hard-headed design on the problem, you have find out your own break eveniont. You can get this by figurage in all the costs that you would ave in owning and operating your culties" with the internal revenue bureau to find out your own break even-point. You can get this by figuring in all the costs that you would have in owning and operating your own equipment. Do it on an hour-ly basis and compare the rate Memb when you have those figures you should be able to decide if you can use the machine for enough hours

Patrick Henry received his license as a lawyer after studying law for only six weeks.

Eben L. Reid, executive vice president of the Greater New Castle Association, was guest speaker at the meeting of Walmo PTA on Wednesday evening. Mr. Reid chose "Trends Toward Socialism" for his subject. He was introduced to the group by Mrs. Howard Moore, program chairman.

He reminded the group that America is the finest country that the world has ever known, but it is slowly changing without being aware of the fact due to "creeping socialism". "We should wake up and realize our responsibilities before it is too late," he stated furfore it is too late," he stated fur-

"America is the healthiest nation in the world and yet has more hospitals than any other nation." He explained about the Tennessee Valley Association, government housing and government economy, stating that the communist Lenin said "We will force the United States to spend itself into destruc-States to spend itself into destruction".

Mr. Reid urged everyone to write to their congressman and support him in order for him to do a good job. He went on to say that people must take a more active part, that one person can't do it all. Mr. Reid closed his informative and interesting talk with the thought "Let's leave our children a nation as good as the one our ancestors left us".

Dr. James A. Gillespie who spoke on "Housing Needs in New Castle" quietly and with great objectivity impressed the men and women present with the absolute necessity for better housing in New Castle for low income groups.

Needs Are Cited

He cited how light industry has replaced housing units on Moravia, Mahoning and South Beaver streets, how certain other streets of our community are marked with excessive deterioration and the excessive deterioration and the absence of facilities that people of today regard as necessities.

"A better house does not always make a better citizen but it indeed make a better citizen but it indeed helps," said Dr. Gillespie. He then cited examples of improved living conditions in communities where Federal aid has been accepted and of how people living previously in delapidated structures now had become real homemakers and were proud of their homes.

Ellwood City, Farrell, Youngstown and Beaver Falls all have successful Federal Housing projects.

Dr. Gillespie reported that local Dr. Gillespie reported that local leaders were concerned about the housing problem but that to date they had been unable to construct homes for less that $10,000, a price that no family in the low income group could afford.

A committee was appointed to draw up a statement expressing the thinking of the group about course and attending night school. He gained a B. A. degree at the Beaver Falls college.

George graduated from the Wampum high school in 1948 and then entered the Geneva college for his training. He was quite active during college days, being a member of the school gospel team and also one of the Genevians. His popularity among his classmen resulted in his being elected president of the senior class this past year at Geneva.

George is a member of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, where his parents and family also belong.

PHILADELPHIA.—(INS)—The man in charge of the planetarium at Philadelphia's Franklin Institute has turned from his star-gazing to a search for the fastest speed-baller in the city.

Dr. I. M. Levitt will pay $250 for the speediest pitch thrown by Philadelphia's sandlotters—and for the speediest pitch thrown by Philadelphia's sandlotters — and there won't be any guessing as to who the winner is. The amateur hurlers will be judged by the Franklin Institute's pitchometer, a mechanical um-pire that never makes a mistake. Adapted from the projectile meters developed by the army during the war, the gadget records the speed of pitched balls down to the nearest tenth of a mile pe hour.

It is a large, box-like structure six feet long, three feet wide, and four feet high. One end of the machine is open to allow the pitch to enter and the inside of the box is padded to prevent any rebounds

Winner May Get Crack At Maxim

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.-(INS)-The winner of the Archie Moore-Harold Johnson 10-rounder at the Philadelphia Arena Monday will be recognized as the logical contender for Joe Maxim's light heavyweight world championship. State Athletic Commissioner John (Ox) Dagrosa simultaneously served notice that Maxim will be given a certain amount of time to defend his title against the victor. "Should he fail to do so." Da-grosa said today, "our commission will declare the title vacant."

Dewey, saluting his "fellow peasants" in Grants Pass, took ironic note of a story that a picture of his initiation into the club, together with an explanation that he had joined an anti-church revoluhad joined an anti-church revolu-tion in the U. S. was being display-ed in a former Leningrad cathedral.

The Russian caption under the picture assertedly described the members of the skylarking Oregon club as "peasants" and said they were required to drink blood and eat raw meat as part of their initiation.

In his telegram to the club, Dewey said: "Fellow Peasants: I salute you and congratulate you. The Soviet propaganda machine has admitted you to the exclusive club of the downtrodden masses of America.
